Speaking Of Sports

NEW YORK, July 22.—U.P.—America's lineup for the Wimbledon tennis matches to be played at Forest Hills, L. I., August 4-5, will not be named until a day or so before play begins.

It is generally understood that Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, and Helen Jacobs will play the No. 1 and No. 2 singles positions. It is thought likely that little Sarah Palfrey will play one of the double places. But no definite announcements will be made until the completion of the Southlight Invitation Tourney on July 29.

Tennis experts expect a squad of six players to be selected. Such a squad would include Mrs. Moody, Miss Jacobs, Miss Palfrey, Alice Marble, Caroline Babcock and Josephine Crutcher. All of these players except Miss Palfrey are from the West Coast; she is from Boston.

The Wimbledon cup series consists of seven matches, five singles and two doubles. The No. 1 and No. 2 players of each gender play each other, preceding four matches and the No. 3 players have a single meeting. It is possible, of course, for climber players also to play doubles. In this connection many

Murphy Asks Vote On Change Of Franchise

League club owners that a Mexican City franchise would unquestionably prove huge financial success. International aspect alone will make for tremendous boom for baseball.

"Unnecessary we describe to you these facts and desire you to importune club owners for ratification of such proposition. Air traveling no longer a risk. Upon your securing owners' approval we can arrange to acquire any one of three club franchises. Wire reply."

William H. Klepper, president and principal stockholder of the Seattle club, after conferring with Murphy and Kronick yesterday, admitted negotiations had progressed but was reticent about discussing the Mexican City deal. LOS ANGELES, July 22.—U.P.—John (Fosborn) Murphy and Harry Kronick today awaited a reply from Highland Hagerly, president of the Pacific Coast League, to their message asking if he could obtain ratification from the club owners of a plan to transfer a franchise to Mexico City.

Murphy and Kronick said they could purchase either the Seattle, Oakland or Sacramento clubs and that if other club owners were agreeable they would lease the deal at once and transfer the franchise to the Mexican capital. They wired Hagerly as follows:

"We are very definite and have substantial reasons to guarantee

Excitement High
At Cup Tourney,
U. S. Is On Spot

AUTHEIL, France, July 22.—U.P.—Davis Cup history was reversed today as the tennis forces of the United States found themselves confronted with the necessity of winning two singles matches in the opening round of the cup battle proper at Roland Garros stadium here next Friday.

Kept in the running a George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn von the doubles match from the 1911 Irish team of Pat Hennessey and Fred Perry, 8-6, 6-1, 6-1. The American team enters the two final singles encounters tomorrow trailing as the British did in 1931.

In that year, England won the last year of singles engagements from the United States and gained the right to meet France in the final cup battle.

Whether the United States will meet France at a time when the French banner is favored to be hauled down from the pinnacle of Davis Cup supremacy it has occupied since 1927, will depend on what Ellsworth Vines and Wilmer Allison can do tomorrow.

Both Vines and Allison were defeated in straight sets by Wilfred "Bunny" Austin and Fred Perry, respectively, in yesterday's initial encounter.

Tomorrow the order will be reversed and it will take only one English victory to match the Union Jack against the tri-color in the opening round of the cup battle proper at Roland Garros stadium here next Friday.

The luck of the draw is with the Americans for these two matches. In the opening contest Allison will meet Austin while Vines and Perry take the court immediately after the game is over.

If Allison beats Austin it will be up to Vines to win if America is to stay in the running for the battered cup.

Decidedly off form yesterday, Vines will be faced with winning probably the most important match of his brilliant career if Allison, the doughty Texan, ties the score at two matches all.

Americans in Paris fear more for Allison than they do for Vines. They figure that if the red necked southerner can win his match, Vines will rise to the occasion and defeat Perry in much the same manner as he whipped Hendrick in the fifth and final contest in last year's challenge round.

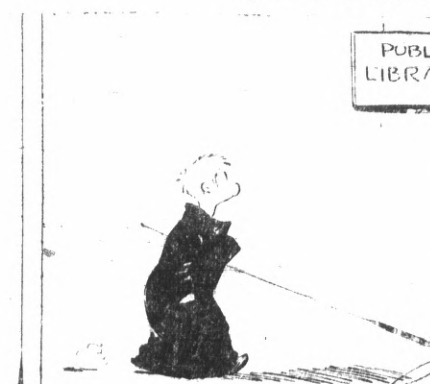

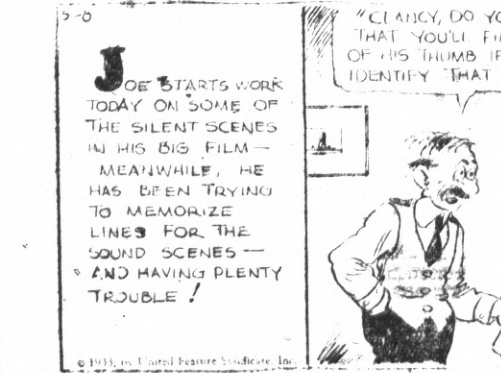

When the players opened their match on the red courts of Roland Garros stadium today, brilliant sunshine baked the crowd of 8,000.

Trout Fishing Hits Low; Bass, Perch are Good

During the latter part of the month of July and throughout most of August, trout fishing reaches a low ebb in most of the streams and lakes of this state.

There are two main factors involved in this.

In the first place the warm weather is usually at its height at that time and the fish takes refuge in the deeper holes and in the deep parts of the lakes.

Then, there seems to be a lull in the feeding activities of trout at that time, and few fish are rising to a fly.

But while the trout fishing is slow during that time, the bass and perch fishing in inland waters is usually at its best during the periods of hot weather.

Black bass are hot weather fish, and fishermen have learned that during the latter part of July the best sport is to be had with that species.

It is much too hot in the middle of the day to do much fishing in the interior valleys at this time.

A few fish can be taken on live bait during the midday period, but they are the exception. Early morning and late evening is the time to do the most fishing.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

By MRS. CARL W. LONGACR
A Drunken Driver is a Menace to Safety

"When an intoxicated is enthroned, reason is dethroned, physically and mentally." That statement was not made by a prohibition orator.

It was not made by a member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. It was not made by the Anti-Saloon League. The statement was made by Justice McGowan, of the state Supreme Court of the State of Mississippi.

Justice McGowan is one of the ablest jurists of the south. An automobile driver who had imbibed too freely ran over and injured a young woman. A suit followed and it was in rendering the opinion in this case that Justice McGowan said: "When an intoxicated is enthroned, reason is dethroned, physically and mentally."

This is something that the people who are so anxious for liquor to again flow as freely as water might well give some thought to. These people may be able to drink without harm to themselves, but how are they going to protect their families against drunken drivers?

Of course, it may be that after a year or so of the saloon, the drinkers will have to go back to walking, there will not be enough money for schooling the children, keeping an automobile and buying liquor. That might make it a little safer in time but viewed from the family standpoint, would liquor be preferable to the family car? Truly "when liquor is enthroned, reason is dethroned, physically and mentally."

Liquor and gasoline cannot travel together—when one comes in the other will go out. Read this further comment made by Justice McGowan from the bench: "An automobile is not a dangerous chattel or instrument per se, but an automobile properly propelled by gasoline under the public streets of a populous city under exclusive control and management of an adult drinking at the time to excess is as dangerous to the traveling public as a foot with a machine gun which hurls bullets down the thoroughfare." These statements made by Justice McGowan should be published by every paper and put in the hands of every member of the legislature.

Senator Carter Glass says: The saloon was the breeding place of crime and immorality and vulnerability and profligacy of every description. It was the rendezvous of the immoral and criminal element. Its effrontery was unparalleled.

Shall America turn backward to the sorrow and misery of the old saloon days? After 12 years shall America retreat in a great moral reform? Shall America sell the birthright of her children for a mess of pottage? (reverted).

In the increasing traffic of this machine age shall America jeopardize her millions of citizens by herself selling the stuff which so muddles brains and destroys the morals of her people, and renders our highways and streets unsafe for ourselves and our children?

That nation which turns from her economy, her education, her industrial leaders, her social workers, her humanitarians, her preachers, to the leering, selfish faces of those whose God is their appetite and their bank account, has passed her zenith and her sun is sinking, just as did Rome's.

Comes the moment to decide. In the strife, right truth and falsehood. For the good or evil side."

YOUTH SAVES 3 BOYS FROM RIVER DEATH

OAKLAND, July 22.—Three Oakland boys today owe their lives to the heroism of Warren Stone, 16, seahore of the Oakland Union high school, who pulled them from the Stanislaus river after they had fallen from a raft.

The boys, Alfred and Joe Vargas and Joe Costa, all between 6 and 9 years of age, were unable to swim. They had been seated on a raft pushed by them up and down the river.

The raft escaped control and moved out into the center of the river, where the water is more than seven feet deep. These three children became excited and started moving around on the raft, which resulted in their being thrown into the stream.

Stone swam to the place where the boys had disappeared and dove after them. The two Vargas boys were rescued first. The Costa boy had been down for the third time when Stone dived and brought him up.

He had swallowed a great deal of water, but after being treated for asphyxiation, was taken to his home.

Philippine Freedom Acceptance Likely

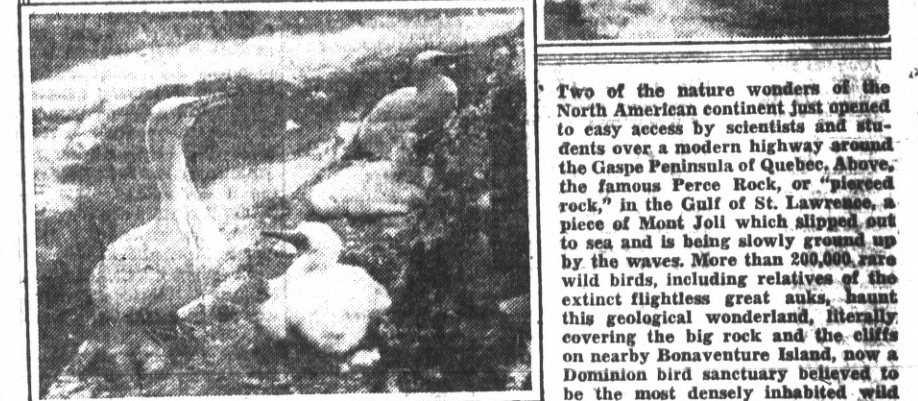

MANILA, July 22.—Members of both factions of the dominant Nationalist party predicted tonight that eventual Philippine independence tendered by the United States would be accepted after a plebiscite or through a national convention.

They also expressed the opinion that reorganization of the Nationalist party would be followed by formation of rival parties displacing the Nationalist, with its shibboleth "immediate, complete, absolute independence."

200,000 Rare Wild Birds in Gaspesia See Their Realm Opened to Scientists family of gannets in a colony of more than 14,000 protected "residents." No, that's not a mask, merely a highly decorative beak supplied by nature.

GASPE, Que.—An army of American scientists is invading this far-flung section of Quebec this summer to study the bird life and geological formations at the famous Percé Rock in the Gulf of St. Lawrence near this city. A new motor highway making the spot readily accessible is the cause for the influx of scientific visitors.

Attracted by more than 200,000 rare wild birds which live on Percé Rock and nearby Bonaventure Island, and by the chance to study an example of sea action on rock in the great "pierced mountain" itself, several expeditions have notified the provincial government of their intention to visit Gaspesia this summer. With opening of the 553-mile Percé Highway circling the peninsula and linking it for the first time by modern automobile road with New England, Quebec City, Montreal and middle western points via the new 1000-mile drive along the St. Lawrence River, university students, scientific groups and American motorists are penetrating the quaint and historic country in increasing numbers. Ornithologists know Percé Rock and Bonaventure Island, now a bird sanctuary created by the Dominion government, as the home of probably the largest collection of wild birds in North America. Here, nesting so thickly on the shelf-like ledges along the great cliffs that the rocks appear to be covered with snow, are found such fascinating specimens as the murres, small relatives of the flightless great auks, now extinct; gannets, cormorants, kittiwakes, gulls, ravens, duck hawks, grouse, white-winged crossbills, a great flock of Loach's petrels, relatives of the famous stormy petrels, and many others. The gannets, which inhabit virtually no other islands on the coast, number more than 14,000 birds.

Percé Rock, or the "pierced rock," as the geological wonder is known in English, is a huge slice of mountainous headland which has broken away from Mont Joli on the coast and slipped out to sea about 600 feet. The formation takes its name from the great 60-foot arch which the sea has pierced in the rock.

According to the famous American geologist, John M. Clarke, that part of the rock exposed above the sea weighs about four million tons, although for countless thousands of years between 300 tons and one thousand tons a year have been chipped from the formation by waves. Mr. Clarke estimates that at this rate the cliff will endure for between 4,000 and 13,000 years more.

Until the new Percé Highway was opened, Gaspesia was little known to the world outside Quebec. Washed on the north by the St. Lawrence River where it flows into the Atlantic, and on the east and south by the Gulf of St. Lawrence, this vast virgin country has an area of 11,400 square miles. It was discovered in 1534 by the French adventurer, Jacques Cartier, and today is the home of an almost pure French population of 102,515 persons engaged chiefly in farming and fishing. Gaspesia is the most mountainous part of eastern Canada, its highest elevation being 4,460 feet. Scores of picturesque resorts noted for their beaches, fishing and boating dot the peninsula.

Romantic Figure Of Gold Rush Era In 'Silver Dollar'

Some of the most romantic characters in the history of the gold rush days of the early West, characters as dazzling as those of the most engaging fiction, are embodied in the First National picture, "Silver Dollar," which opened at the Richmond theater today.

The picture is based on the novel by David Karnes, which delves into the life stories of the pioneers and adventurers who swarmed the mining camps of Colorado during the richest silver strike in the history of the world. The central figure is that of Yates Martin, who struggled through days of starvation as a prospector to rise to fame as the richest of the millionaires after he struck "pay dirt."

Edward G. Robinson plays the part of his Silver Dollar, who slapped a dry president on the back and asked him to have a drink, ruled a State Legislature in a barroom to the popping of champagne corks, and marking such disturbance in his own opera house the prima donna quit in a huff, and scandalized a nation with his divorce and remarriage.

Other picturesque personages include the horde of adventures of the mining camps, the gambling rooms, dance halls, and political forums. Duke Daniels has the leading feminine role, opposite Robinson, that of the second wife of the Silver King, while Aline MacMahon plays the part of the first wife whom he deserted for the younger and more beautiful woman.

JAMES CAGNEY IN BIG DRAMA AT FOX TODAY

James Cagney in his new screen hit, "The Mayor of Hell," opens on a double program at the Fox theatre today with "Diplomaniacs," latest comedy riot with the famed funsters, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey.

"Mayor of Hell" James Cagney, the tough boy of the screen, is thrust from his throne by a youngster, tougher than himself in the dynamic Warner Brothers picture. "The Mayor of Hell" main feature at the Fox today.

That youngster is Frankie Darro, an inmate of a reform school who rebels at the terrible treatment with which these boys are compelled to suffer in order that the state's political machine may function for individual gain.

Madge Evans joins the school as a nurse. As she learns of conditions she bends every personal effort to assuage the situation, but not until she meets "The Mayor of Hell" and teaches him a new kind of love is she successful.

With a theme that is said to equal "An American Boy" in its exposure of modern conditions, "The Mayor of Hell" promises to give audiences many a tremble and chill as the drama rises to a climax that is sure to action and excitement.

"Diplomaniacs" Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, in the second feature on today's bill, make the Fox a center of gay, hilarious laughter because "Diplomaniacs" is their latest comedy success, and said to go their "So This Is Africa" one better in laughs.

Starting their career on an Indian reservation as barbers, the pair of comics convince the Indians of their lack of brains, as the red-skinned warriors have no brains. Comes the time for choosing delegates to the peace conference and the boys win a walk, everyone else is too intelligent to be considered "diplomaniacs."

The fun which has already started now begins in earnest. For Wheeler and Woolsey romp over Europe, creating hilarious havoc wherever they pause on their way to the conference.

Once they arrive they stage a lavish musical show and win the delegates to their side. With the papers signed and in their pockets they arrive in New York just in time to be drafted into the army.

They have been hoodwinked by feminine wiles at the conference and instead of peace, war has been declared.

Hollywood Film Shop

HOLLYWOOD, July 22—UP—The current war for imported film players is assuming the form of another "cycle" one that Hollywood could well afford to miss, in the opinion of B. F. Schulberg, noted producer.

The United States holds no overflow of screen material and there is enough right here in Hollywood to supply the demand for five years to come, Schulberg believes.

On the eve of his departure for Europe, the producer's announcement that he would not look for untalented movie actors was nothing if not unique.

"Foreign stars are something else again," he explained. "There are certain international players whose work is not duplicated either here or abroad. Maurice Chevalier, Marlene Dietrich and Garbo are in this category."

"But bringing players over to this country to build them to stardom, principally because they are foreign, seems to me to be going at the problem in a roundabout way. We have plenty of acting material in this country."

As to foreign plays, however, it is doubtful if America has anything to offer in the way of truly creative material that can compete with Budapest and Moscow, Schulberg believes. The Hungarian theater especially has been producing many excellent plays and Schulberg expects to find at least one suitable for the screen.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT By DON O'MALLEY

NEW YORK, July 22—Taking a glance over the list of celebrities recognized as typical New Yorkers, reports most of them come from small towns many miles removed from Manhattan. Few of them come from the big cities such as Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco or Boston. If they had been born in any of those cities the chances are that they would never have seen reason for coming to New York. However, they came from much smaller villages where they didn't have a chance of acquiring that thing called fame. They decided they needed the big town, or possibly that the big town needed them.

Irvin S. Cobb, the sage of Pan-uch, was a cracker barrel conversationalist down at the general store. He decided he had something to tell New York and he was right. George M. Cohan has done more in his lifetime to make Broadway a glamorous boulevard than any other living person. If anybody might be called a typical New Yorker that person is Cohan. And yet he came into town after a school spent in Providence and vaudeville towns in Massachusetts.

CHAPTER XXIX THAT evening, while Jerry and Chuck were over at the Black Cat with Mary, Hank with Leo and Blackie, were getting two guenons from Brooklyn drunker and drunker.

"Less go out to roadhouse, proposed Blackie, beginning drunkenness to the two from Brooklyn. "Get out! Get out!" they cried, and climbed into Hank's auto.

"SA LO'G way," complained one of them after they had been tearing east out River road for half an hour. Hank pulled down a side road through a woods. Suddenly he gave the wheel a twist and the car lurched.

"Tie flat," he announced. "Everybody help." They all piled out. Blackie helped himself to the visitors' guns as they staggered into the road.

"Now march," he ordered. Leo and Hank snapped out of their drunken roles too. Back into the woods they went, their two victims stumbling ahead of them. They came to an old fence. The two men from Brooklyn were too drunk to do anything but complain whinnying as each was bound to a post.

"How's your eye lately, Hank?" asked Blackie, turning the flashlight on the two victims tied to their posts.

"Need some practice," a guess, answered Hank n. an attempt at playfulness. Blackie handed him the men's own guns.

"Try it out," he suggested. And Hank leveled one of the guns. Soon, Leo, Blackie and Hank were on their way back to town.

"HOW much have you got in the bank for me now, Mary?" Jerry was asking the girl by his side.

"It's seventy thousand," said Mary in a whisper. "Well put this with it," said Jerry. It was a pack of fifty thousand more. "It'll be a million in a year," he promised.

"Let's get married now, Jerry," said Mary. "Just as soon as it's a million, darling," he said. "It will be sooner than 'he year we first met. Maybe before spring," he boasted.

Mary sighed. She had an uneasy feeling about the future. Jerry nodded to Chuck, who joined him from a neighboring table and the two said goodnight to the worried, blue-eyed girl, and left.

NEXT morning Blackie reported to Jerry on the target practice in the woods the night before. "How did Hank take it?" asked Jerry grimly. "Didn't seem to relish the job," smiled Blackie.

Poison Rum Traced In Girl, Man Deaths

ALBANY, Or., July 22—Two deaths attributed by police to poison liquor were being investigated here today. Coroner Fisher received word from Lebanon that Minnie Stenberg, 35, had died from the effects of liquor she drank while attending a dance.

Winford R. Cobb of Portland died in an ambulance early today, apparently from the effects of liquor he drank at Roseburg yesterday.

William S. Hart Undergoes Knife

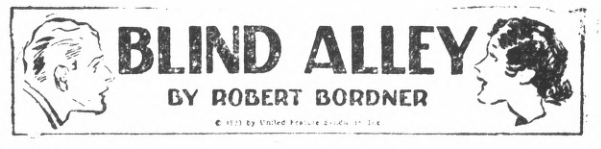

HOLLYWOOD, July 22—William S. Hart, former cowboy film star, underwent an abdominal operation here today to correct an ailment from which he had suffered for some time.

After the operation hospital attendants reported his condition as "good."

Marilyn Miller, stage star. (Walter O'Keefe, the Broadway Hill-Billy, is claimed by Hartford Connecticut.)

The typical New Yorkers who were really born in New York could not possibly have been born anywhere else. "Al" Smith would not be the same Al without that early East Side background. And from the same neighborhood came Eddie Cantor. They had a bigger battle setting up than any of the others. The typical New Yorker "Jimmie" Walker from the sidewalks of New York. Lou Gehrig and his folks are out and out New Yorkers.

It seems that the importations far outweigh the home products. don't it? Still they're all New Yorkers today and the home town couldn't drag them back. They've been here altogether too long, and when New York City, like the tropics gets you" believe me brother, you stay here.

BLIND ALLEY BY ROBERT BORDNER

Mary Briggs, who sings in her uncle's night club, becomes engaged to Jerry Dugan, a young racketeer. His power steadily increases, but two rivals whom he has ousted, Mickey McNeil and Larry Burke, are out to "get" him. They organize another gang and hijack the liquor truck, one of Jerry's allies. Jerry learns that one of his henchmen, Hank, has been seen with two members of the "enemy" organization. He orders Hank to "put them on the spot" and instructs two of his bodyguards to see to it that the job is done.

"Send me Pete first. Then tell Hank to come in," snapped Jerry. "Pete" said Jerry as the ambulance came in, "how'd you like to take over the slot machines from Hank?"

"Great, boss," exclaimed the astounded Pete. "Is Hank quitting?" "Yeah," drawled Jerry. "for good." Then Hank appeared at the door. "Say, Hank, I've been thinking you ought to take a rest. A good, long trip would do you exactly healthy for you any more."

Hank paled. "I was thinking something like that myself last night," he said. But his voice went husky and spoiled his attempt at bravado. He turned to go.

"And if you should run into any more friends from Brooklyn where you're going, warn 'em about the climate here," Jerry added. Hank left without a word.

"TAKE warning from that, my boy; and don't go talking to strangers," said Jerry to Pete. Then he gave Pete detailed instructions about lining up the new job and sent him about his business.

Jerry plunged into the work of organizing his gangs for carrying their districts overwhelmingly for the organization slate at the coming elections. John Clegg, whom Jerry had whipped for Clinton at the primaries, was still in the running for county prosecutor on an independent ticket and was expected to cut it to Clinton's vote especially in the better residential sections.

The opposing party had a few fighters on their slate, but the organization, being new, was weakened by the secret deals the leaders had made with the Chief. They had been delivering the Chief's floor leader in the City Board of Aldermen the support of their votes whenever the Chief had a measure he wanted to get through. For this they were given the privilege of naming 40 per cent of the appointees whenever city jobs were to be given out in the city and county.

JERRY knew that the Beacon was giving the Chief a lot to worry about and that his chief job would be to get Clinton re-elected as county prosecutor.

With his bodyguard, Jerry went up on the Hill to see Charlie Angelo, and found him, as usual, in his shirt sleeves checking out the truckloads of corn sugar for the little distillers scattered all over Little Italy.

Angelo beamed. Business was never better. "Fine," laughed Jerry. "But what I came to see you about was the elections. We've got to get busy right away. It's only a couple of weeks now and we've got to have a bigger majority for Clinton, and incidentally the whole ticket, than before."

Angelo smiled and nodded. He had organized a fraternal order on the Hill, the better to handle things at election time. The clan included his fellow countrymen members of the old Mafia in Sicily were combined in this order to give him an iron control of the Hill itself.

Mattern Ready To Start Out For New York

NOME, Alaska, July 22 UP—Jimmy Mattern, round the world flyer, who lost his chance to be the first man to fly solo around the world when he cracked his plane up near Anadyr, Siberia, was ready to hop to Fairbanks with three friends who flew here to return him to Nome.

Mattern has accepted an offer of the Alaska Pacific Airways to continue his solo flight to New York in one of their fast Lockheed planes.

He will probably follow Wiley Post who is almost at the end of his world solo flight in New York.

INSTALL Natural Gas HEATING THIS MONTH AT A SUBSTANTIAL SAVING

Follow this Universal Trend—9 out of 10 Heating Systems Installed Today are for Natural Gas

Because of a Special Offer this month, many people will make the change to Natural Gas heating at once. It pays them to act this month. A Special Discount cutting the purchase price of Natural Gas heating equipment saves them money. The equipment is installed for a very small first payment. They do not pay one cent more until after October 1st.

There are many sensible and good reasons for doing this during the summer. No need for ordering and storing fuel. No bother and expense for repairs of old heating equipment. No need to think of the chores ahead for the coming winter—keeping fires going and cleaning up after them. Instead they can look forward to the enjoyment of whole-house comfort for which there is no other expense other than the monthly bill for fuel after it is used.

Without obligation to you, why not have one of your gas company's representatives or your local heating equipment dealer give you an estimate for Natural Gas heating in your home? In this estimate the Special Discount and Special Terms will apply if you act this month.

ASSEMBLY APPROVES MEASURE

revision program if the Los Angeles assemblymen would agree to kill any income tax proposals.

Cobb Rebels
Assemblyman "General" Lawrence Cobb strongly opposed the income tax levy. He emphasized recent examples of fabulously wealthy men—Morgan, Mitchell and others—escaping income tax payments at all.

"And then they bound you to death for $3.62 when the fellow with millions doesn't pay a cent," Cobb observed.

Cobb argued the Federal tax, on which the state tax would be based, had weak spots in its capital gains and losses sections. The state, he argued, should not incorporate such an unsound law in its statute books.

Both houses met Wednesday at 4 p. m. as adjournment time. Senate leaders privately expected the session would not be concluded at that time.

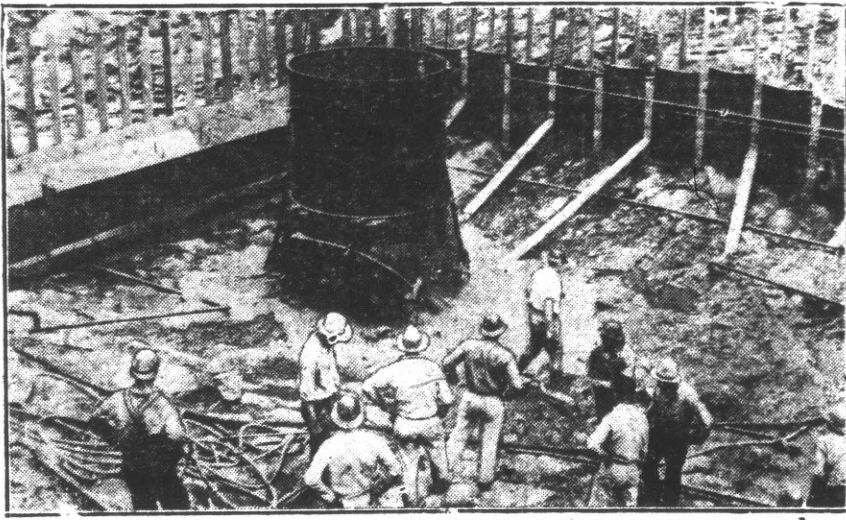

House Recedes
The upper House recessed over the week-end at 1 p. m. while the Assembly struggled on over tax problems throughout the afternoon.

No decision was reached by the upper House irrigation committee on the great Central Valley water project dispute. However, opposition of utilities came out in the open at the session.

The Senate judiciary committee reversed itself and unanimously sent the Berkeley beer bill, permitting sale of 3.2 percent beverages adjacent to the University of California, out on the floor with a "do pass" recommendation.

Governor Rolph signed the important tax repayment relief plan. The measure, characterized by the governor as the "most important tax relief" measure of the session, gives persons whose property has reverted to the state the opportunity of recovering their

THOUSANDS ATTEND DIABLO VALLEY APRICOT FESTIVAL

BRENTWOOD, July 22.—Arranged in festive garb, this community today acted as host to thousands of visitors from all parts of Central California to its eighth annual Diablo Valley Apricot Festival.

The three day fiesta was opened last night with a ball in honor of Queen Josephine Reichmuth and her attendants, Anita Armstrong, Margaret Clark, Betty Holstetter, and Lorraine Curtis and events of general interest have been scheduled almost hourly for today and tomorrow.

Highlights of the program tomorrow will be the annual parade headed by Sheriff R. R. Vesle, who has been designated as "perennial" marshal, addresses by Henry E. Monro, San Francisco attorney, H. H. McLike, recently appointed northern California district attorney and county officials and civic leaders, athletic contests and a stock horse show.

An informal dance will be held throughout the afternoon and evening and free apricots will be distributed to all visitors at a special booth maintained by the festival directors. A portion of the main pavilion will be devoted to carnival attractions.

Claire Windsor Seems to Have Lost Another "Future Husband"

NEW YORK, July 22.—UP.—The romance of Tommy Manville, Jr., and Claire Windsor, motion picture actress, appeared today to be ended and some of Broadway's gossipers were predicting that Manville would marry a society girl.

Early this summer it appeared to be a good guess that Manville and the pretty actress would be married. Indirectly both admitted that such was their plan.

In the last few weeks they have not been seen together in the haunts they formerly frequented. "Maybe she's interested in another person," Manville was said to have confided to friends. "I haven't seen her for several weeks."

Asked whether he would marry some one else, Manville hinted that he planned to remain single for a while. But those who are supposed to know such gossip were saying that Manville was interested in a society girl, whose name appeared to be something of a secret.

Manville has been married three times. His first wife was Florence Huber. His third wife, Avonnie Taylor, got a divorce in 1921.

College Boys Badly Injured In Car Crash

BOULDER, Colo., July 22.—UP.—As the result of an automobile accident two Arkansas City, Kansas youths, summer school students at the University of Colorado, were in the hospital here today.

J. Ned Brandon suffered cuts and bruises and Walter Ranney was more critically injured when their automobile crashed into a culvert and overturned in an irrigation ditch.

Physicians said that Ranney had a possible skull fracture but the extent of his injury could not be determined until the X-ray pictures were developed and studied.

Brandon will be discharged from the hospital tonight.

The two boys were returning from Denver when it was thought that Brandon, who was driving, fell asleep at the wheel.

Happy Days Are Here Again, In Business Lists

SAN FRANCISCO, July 22.—UP.—Far western business activity in June made its greatest gains since February, 1929, the Bank of America reported today.

The June business index, as estimated by the bank, stood at 59.5, an increase of 5.1-2 per cent over May and of 16.5 over the depression low mark of March this year.

Building permits in 61 cities in eight states totalled $29,677,635 in the first six months of the year. This was a gain of 19.1-2 per cent over the corresponding 1932 period.

Exclusive of the San Francisco bay bridge project, the total showed a 17.4 per cent gain over last year.

Reports of 77 department stores in the Twelve Federal Reserve District showed the aggregate dollar volume of retail trade in June approximated that of the corresponding month last year despite the present lower prices.

Deposits in reserve banks in the district on July 5 were $60,000,000 above the total for the same date last year. Business failures in the first five months showed a 26.1 per cent decrease.

Lots of Fun
"Chicago was not the place for such an announcement," the 22-year old Roosevelt said. "Besides we were having a lot of fun with all the excitement over the affair."

The Roosevelt family is happy over the marriage. It was made plain, Young Roosevelt said he had talked frequently with his father by long distance telephone and that the president was "very, very joyful" about it all.

The ceremony was at the home of George V. Swiler, prominent local banker and uncle of the bride. Among those present were the bride's mother, her brother, David, her niece Mary Ruth Gogins, Fort Worth, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Miller of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore of Chicago, Mrs. Park Snowden and George Snowden of Palantine, N. CANNERS GO TO BAT WITH THE PACKING HEADS

SAN FRANCISCO July 22.—UP.—California peach growers and canners prepared tonight to press their divergent views on a peach canners' code on federal officials at Washington on July 31.

On that date hearings will be held on the proposed code advanced by the Canners' League of California. Provisions of the league plan included payment of $20 to $22.50 a ton to growers, deductions for a pool for unharvested fruit, minimum wages of 27.1-2 cents an hour for canner workers, and curtailment of the pack to 9,500,000 cases.

Four organizations already have expressed opposition to this program. Independent growers meeting at Yuba City demanded $25 a ton for their peaches.

The California Farm Bureau Federation asked a flat $20 per ton be paid growers. The Sutter County Independent Growers' Association declared it will fight the curtailment plan.

A group of 30 independent canners asked a flat $20 per ton price be established and urged higher pay for male canner workers.

Friendly Action Brings on Death

OAKLAND, July 22.—UP.—A "good samaritan" and the person he befriended were victims today of a fatal grade crossing accident here.

Henry Brunkhorst, 55, apartment house janitor, and Miss Jean Harding, 28, industrial nurse, were killed when a Southern Pacific electric train struck their automobile. Police said the nurse asked Brunkhorst to rush her to work so she could arrive on time.
